Municipality Welcomes New Manager of Infrastructure and Public Works

Sioux Lookout, ON – The Municipality of Sioux Lookout is excited to announce Aaron Gullins joining the team as Manager of Infrastructure and Public Works, effective April 30th.

Aaron enters his new role equipped with a strong educational and professional background in civil engineering and business administration. His membership with the Professional Engineers of Ontario demonstrates a commitment to excellence and adherence to professional standards. Furthermore, Aaron has dedicated considerable time and effort to researching asset management and life-cycle optimization within the realm of civil engineering. By leveraging this expertise, Aaron is poised to implement innovative strategies that maximize asset performance while minimizing lifecycle costs.

He was educated in Thunder Bay, receiving a Bachelor of Engineering – Civil and a Master of Business Administration from Lakehead University after completing Civil Engineering Technology program at Confederation College.

“Aaron’s multi-disciplinary skillset makes him a great asset to the Municipality. Beyond his experience in the construction industry, he has a substantial business background that will serve us well as we continue to find ways to achieve operational efficiency and excellence. We look forward to seeing the impact he will make on the community,” said CAO/Clerk, Brian MacKinnon.

Gullins brings many years of experience in the region to the position. Aaron began his engineering career as Project Supervision for Miller Northwest in Dryden. He also worked for Stantec and TBT Engineering in Thunder Bay, where he performed engineering consulting work within the highway, municipal, and building science disciplines. His work history also includes time with the Ministry of Transportation in Thunder Bay and most recently as a Construction Manager in Regina. Aaron has also taught at Confederation College within the civil engineering discipline, inspiring young minds to develop their own skills within the industry.

“I’m looking forward to the challenges this role will bring,” said Gullins. I appreciate Sioux Lookout’s current financial situation and will work to ensure our projects are handled efficiently and as cost-effectively as possible. I can’t wait to meet more of the community.”
